WATER SOURCING

WATER SOURCING

Select's Water Sourcing service line was established to support operators in identifying, acquiring and permitting source water. Through our portfolio of contracts with regulatory bodies, corporations and individuals, Select has access to approximately 1.3 billion barrels of water.

OUR BACKGROUND

Every water acquisition is unique, and most are subject to a variety of local, state or provincial, and federal rules and regulations that can make the process of water sourcing and delivery cumbersome and complicated. Therefore, Select Energy Services has assembled a specialized team of water professionals with both the education and experience to successfully navigate the complexities of this process.

Select's Water Sourcing Specialists and advisers have degrees in Environmental Science, Geology, Geography, Hydrology, and Natural Resource Management—with more than half holding Master's Degrees in related fields. Our team's extensive experience includes prior service with state water regulatory agencies, conservation districts, oil and gas operations and water-focused environmental firms.

Hydrology • Natural Resource Management*

OUR APPROACH

When acquiring a water source, we work closely with appropriate regulatory agencies to meet all permitting requirements. Our team works diligently to ensure we acquire the right water, the right way. Also essential, we make sure to treat landowners, water right holders, and our neighbors with the utmost respect.

Our team is composed of highly trained and experienced professionals, who help us achieve our goals in delivering an optimum and first class service to our clients.
